PULMONARY COMPLAINTS. No better evidence of the great curative powers of this EXPECTORANT can be offered than the grasful testimory of those who have been restored to health by its use, and the wide-spread pepularity which, for so long a period, it has maintained in the face of all competition, and which has created a constantly increasing demand for it in all parts of the world. Here is a portion of the testimony lately received:—

hately received — Rev. I. J. ROBBETS, the well known missionary, writing from Canton, China, under date of June 25th, 1851, from Canton, China, under date of June 25th, 1851, from Canon, Comm, user war valuable medicine; any s:"I find the Expectorant a very valuable medicine; indeed, i cannot do without it, on account of a Chronic Breast Complaint, which has troubled me more or less for several years past, and which originated from my pracahing too loud and long in the open air. The Expectorant always cases the pain and quiets the symptoms, and, were it not for the requirements of my vocation, I believe would have, cre this, effected a permanent curs."

INSTANTANEOUS RELIEF AFFORDED IN PLEURISY.
Mr. W. HOSKING, of South Yerrs, Australia, writes,

October 5th, 1853:—

"I have much piesure in bearing my testimony to the efficacy of Dr. Jayne's Expectorant. I was suffering from an attack of acute pleurisy, so that I could not breathe without great pain. I kied two or three medicines without avail, and was hourly getting worse, when I was induced to procure a bottle of the Expectorant. I now feel bound in gratitude to say that I experienced almost instantaneous rejied, and in a short time I was entirely cured."

IMMBDIATE AND PERMANENT RELIEF. Mrs. J. B. FISHER, of St. Johnsville, Montgome Mr. J. B. FISHER, of St. Johnsville, Montgomery councy, N. Y., writes:—
"My little daughter, aged ten years, has always been subject to celd, producing croup, congestion, inflammation of the lungs, or a severe protracted cough. Your Expectorant is the only medicine that ever gave her immediate and permarent relief. I have tried other lung remedies, but they proved necless, and a resert to your Expectorant was the only means of cure."

was the only means of cure."

SAVED ONE LIFE AT LEAST.

Mr. A. D. LICEY, of River Styx, Ohlo, writes:—

"I have a little girl subject to croup, and being afraid to depend on the ordinary remedies have emptoyed a physician for her. Last night, December 27th, 1863, she was taken worse than usual. The doctor had been called out of town; something had to be done at once or the child lost. I gave five tesapoonfuls of the expectorant, and applied financi cloths, well esturated with your liminent, to her neck and breast, and in half-an-hour relief was obtained. This morning the child is quite easy, and will recover; and if you could but hear the praises given your remedies by my wrife, you would certainly feel that the expectorant has saved one life at least."

The Expectorant and all Dr. D. Jayne and Son's family medicines are sold in Eydney by the general agents, J. and E. E.OW, 219, Pitt-street, and by druggists generally, from whom may also be obtained GRATH Jayne's Medical Almanae and Guide to Health.

J. M. LBIGH and CO., 284, George-strest. M CARROLL'S, PITT-STREET

Cheaper and cheaper the model is selling,
Though eattle and sheep are so dear,
The forethought of Phil is heavily telling—
He has stock enough bought for the year. There is no such word as "rise" in his book:
The prices he still will keep down—
To carry out this precaution he took
To prepare for the wants of the town.

His branch shops sell too at Woolloomeoloo, Whitechapel, and Redfern the same. Or Botany Road there's just the same mode, Only look at the door for the name.

Next Saturday night will astonish she sight, Notwithstanding the high wholesale prices, The model will show it can stand such a blow— Ever ready to meet such a crisis. He has heard what is said by those in the trade, That his prices this week will be ruin: But fair, open field, to battle or yield, Why who can say wrong he is doing.

The more that is said, the more that is done, Will only make Phil go the faster. By public opinion, his leurels are won.— At the head of the trade he stands master.

And now there's his prices as low as before, Which none in the trade can come now. Next Saturday night the crowds at the door Will show who is cheep and who's dear. LIST OF PRICES.

TO HENRY HALLORAN.

You know I left my forest home full loth; And those weird ways I knew so well and long, Dishevelied with their sloping sidelong growth Of twisted thorn and kurrijong. It seems to me, my friend (and this wild thought Of all wild thoughts, doth chiefly make me bleed), That in those hills and valleys wonder-fraught, I loved and lost a noble creed?

A splendid creed! but let me even turn And hide myself from what I've seen, and try To fathom certain truths you know, and learn The Beauty shining in your sky;

Remembering you, in ardest autumn nights, And Stenhouse near you, like a fine stray guest Of other days, with all his lore of lights So manifold and manifest!

Yes, though the heavy Earth wears sackcloth now Because she hath the great prophetic grief Whish makes me set my face one way, and how And falter for a far belief,

He faithful yet for all, my brave bright peer, In that rare light you hold so true and good; Ard find me something clearer than the clear White spaces of inflattace.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

Morr American "Tall Talk."—An individual in Michigan proposes to build a special staircase down the Maelatrom, in order to recover the valuables that have been sucked into that receiver during the last 200 years. It is to be a joint-stock affair, and named "The International Spiral Staircase Treasure-Seeking Association." Another Yasake has the following splendid project for neutralising summer and winter: "I intend to lay down, in every street, court, laue, and alley in Boaton, 10,000 miles of iron main, four feet in diameter, with 12-inch service-pipes entering each house. So far, as good. Then I shall commence at the top of the White Mountains to lay down a pipe ten feet in diameter into the ground six yards deep, from the said White Mountains to the main at Boaton, which will have been constructed as before remarked. This done, I shall build a steam-engine 718,000 horse-power, with which I shall force the feering atmosphere into every house in B-ston. There's no mistake in this—it's bound to go; and, when it is finished, I mean to go in for a line of pipes to the tropics to pump hot air into the houses in winter. These little jobs completed, we will have our cold weather in July; and in January it shall be warm and comfortable, as it always ought to have been."

Stryfing at Sza.—A paragraph has gone the round of the papers relating to a recent catraordinary transparency of the sea at Deal, the bottom being distinctly visible at a censiderable depth. The statement is somewhat suggestive, and I am induced to ask whether some useful purpose might not be served in the examination of sea bottoms for telegraphic and other purposes, by an arrangement which should enable investigators to look straight down wards or cisgonally from the interior of a ship, either with or without the aid of telescopic apparatus. A good-size disc of clear glass might, I imagine, be so fitted and so placed in the ship's hull as to avoid danger of fracture or other risk. With the full glare of mid-day shining on the

A London servant girl lay down on her bed, and her clothes, being distended by two crinolines, were set on fire by a condic which she had placed on a chair. She was fatally burnt. The young woman had borrowed one of the crinolines, and put it on in addition to her own, to make her dram stand out more effectually.

PRESENTATION OF BOOKS TO WELLINGTON COLLEGE BY THE GUEEN.—Her Majesty the Queen has,
on the occasion of the Speech-day this year, presented to the Boys' Library a valuable selection of books, smounting to nearly 200 volumes, admirably chosen with a view both to the amusement and instruction of the young students. The following is an extract from a letter from Sir C. B. Phipps which accompanies her Majesty has gladly availed herself of this opportunity of showing the deep interest which she takes in this institution, and of assisting in improving the usefulness of the library originally established by her beloved husband. Her Majesty would wish these additional books to be considered as a part of the Prince Consort's contribution to the Boys' Library.—London Standard, July 6.

A PROTHECY.—Never until we welcome the negro, the foreigner, all races as equals, and, melted together in a common nationality, hurl them all at despotism, will the North deserve triumph, or earn it at the hands of a just God. But the North will triumph.
I bear it. Do you remember, in that disarrous siege in India, when the Scotch girl raised her head from the pallet of the hospital, and said to the sickening hearts of the English, "I hear the bagples: the Campbells are coming." And they said, "Jessic, it is delirium." "No; I know it: I heard it far off."
And, in an hour, the pibroch burst upon their glad ears, and the banner of England floated in triumph over their heads. So I hear, in the dim distance, the first notes of the jubiler ising from the hearts of the millions. Soom—very soon—you shall hear it at the gates of the citadel; and the "Stars and Stripes" shall goarantee liberty for ever from the Lake to the Gulf.—Wendell Phillips.

Mr. Gladstonn and Reform.—The Chancellor of the Exchequer has addressed the following letter to Mr. Thomes Pindar, of Newark, in answer to a reacuntin lately adopted at a meeting of the electure of the borough, approving the right hon. gentleman's parlamentary carrer, and especially his late speech place which first gave me, when young, the opportunity of learning, within the walls of Parliament, the working of the constitution and the true character of my country."

The Anolo-Implan Theronaph.—We have received intelligence from the disturbed district between Begdad and Bussorah, to the effect that the rebel Sheikh Mansuha had collected together some five or six thousand of the Montefic insurgents, and had attacked Fahad (the Sheikh nominated by the Turkish Government), whose force was supported by 1200 Turkish infantry and two guns. Mausuha was routed with great lose, and fied over to the other side of the Tigris. The country is now assuming a more settled state, and mounted messengers are being sent over the break between Diwanych and Bussorah every two days, occupying three and a half to four days in the journey. The line between Bussorah and Kurrachee works with the greatest possible celerity and efficiency, but it will be necessary to bring about a reorganisation of the Constantinople and Bagdad land line, especially in stationing European signallers at the chief stations, before it can be properly worked for through traffic. Colonel Stewart is new on his way from Bombay to Constantinople to complete these and other essential arrangements.—The Telegraphic Journal.

Government, Decryange And Stram Factories.—The Admiralty has made a return to the House of Commons showing the cost of conversion of timber in her Majesty's dockyards, and of the cost of the Government steam factories in the year 1862.63. With this account is also given a statement of the value of these operations and work per rate book. The Accountant-General of the Navy, in his report respecting these accounts, says that "the excess cost of produce over rate book value upon the whole of the transactions, amounting in the aggregate to £1,438,861 2s. 7d., is allowed for wear and tear of machinery, interest on plant, and for supervision, and many persons may be of the opinion that this allowance for these items is much too small in comparin fi.374.864 38. 7d., showing that according to this mode of comparing values the excess of cost of produce over rate book value was £64.015 5s., or about it per cent.

Maddian of London, in a pamphlet recently published, and in articles in the Lancet, affords the medical profession a fair opportunity of judging of the efficacy of his new curative agent. The writer states, and brings ample evidence to prove, that by the application of cold and heat along the centre of the spill of the control of cold and heat along the centre of the back, the quantity of blood circulating in the spinal cord and in the ganglionic nervous system may be increased and lessened, and that an effectual remedy is thus provided for a large number of complaints, including epilepsy, paralysis, functional diseases, vertice, mental aberration, pleurity, bronchitis, and other minor disorders. In 1863, Dr. Chapman states, he applied the method in numerous cases of epilepsy and paralysis, and had the satisfaction of finding that the remedial power was an indubitable reality. He has proved, by numerous experiments, "that cold applied to the back not only exerts a sedative influence (a depolarising influence, according to Dr. Todd) on the spinal cord, but also on those nervous centres which preside over the blood vessels in all parts of the body. The modus operandi of this influence on these centres and its effects may be thus stated:—1. It partially paralyses them. 2. By means of the partial paralysis thus effected, it lessens the nervous currents in the vaso-motor nerves emerging from the ganglia, or nerve centres, acted upon, it enables the blood which flows in the hervous currents in the vaso-motor nerves emerging from the ganglia, or nerve centres, acted upon, it enables the blood which flows in the direction of least resistance, to enter them in greater volume and with greater rapidity than before." It is the trieffects of the body except the spinal cord and the sympathetic ganglia themselves. Heat, of course, produces opposite results. The

THE GREAT EATERN STEAMSHIP—It has already been intimated that the big ship was to be fitted for laying the ocean telegraph cable between this country and the United States. We understand that she will leave the Mersey in a day or two and go round to Sheeness, where she is to be equipped for receiving the cable now in course of being manafactured. It is expected that the cable will be ready for laying down about the spring of next year.

A correspondent of the Scotsmen states that on the 3rd two distinct shocks of earthquake were felt in the village of Comris and neighbourhood. The vibration of the earth was but slight, and the slicoks were accompanied by a noise recembling distinct thunder. The shocks apparently came from the south-west, and proceeded to the north-east.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1864.

A DECISION given on the liabilities of carriers has, we understand, excited great concern among the numerous class who pass under that name. They are responsible, after receiving articles in charge, to secure their delivery, and they are charge, to secure their univery, and they are not relieved from this responsibility although they may be stopped on the road by marauders, and lose all their goods by merciless pillage. Let our readers, however, before they condemn the law, consider what might be the effect of non liability. Whenever goods were not de-livered, it would be easy to account for their loss by ascribing it to thieves. All that vigilance which the care of property will always require would be weakened by the feeling that nothing was risked by the carrier. In general, those who convey goods may not be in a condition to pay the large indemnity, but nly possessed of some small they are commo property, and the goods they convey are not very often of so great a value as to render this legal liability ineffective, or to tempt them to form collusive schemes with robbers. If, how ever, no such responsibility existed it would be too probable that the general public would be victimised, and new facilities offered to predatory attacks.

It is said that the Government itself repudiates these liabilities when conveying gold—that it becomes answerable only for its own servants and for its own good faith. But then it must be remembered that gold is an excep-tional commodity, and that those who do not approve of the terms are not bound to send by the Government. The case would be different were there no other lawful method of transit.

A statement appeared a few days ago that a number of men, half-disguised, attacked at night one of these drays and carried off its contents upon packhorses which they had brought for that purpose! A dray-load of merchandise, nicely assorted, could not be more adapted for the this vish neighbourhood if it were sent to its order. Groceries of all descriptions -plenty of spirits and tob co-tomahawks-hammers and pails, agricultural implements,now and then a fair complement of pistols and ammunition—in short, everything they required carefully made up to the hand of these enter-prising people, who find such a market more attractive than the store, and are willing to run the small risk to be so handsomely furnished.
The instance to which we have referred is only one of a numerous class, and is very sugges-tive. Who are these robbers? By what means are they brought together, and then dispersed? How is it that they provide themselves with such means of carriage? What becomes of the goods which were assorted for housekeeping, not bu-hranging, or to be distributed in small parcels among shops? The truth is clear and unmistakable. The robbers are not bushrangers in the ordinary understanding of the word-namely, those who have left ordinary dwellgs, and taken up with a predatory lifeave in caves and forests. They are simply settlers-the occupiers of small estates, who make up their marauding expeditions, join together in these neferious conspiracies, and catter so soon as they approach their own dwellings. Their goods are planted various places - brought into domes consumption unobserved, and thus form one of the regular supplies of colonisation! There are, no doubt, also bushrangers in the proper sense of the word; but even these have en the auxiliaries of this system of pillage Much that they have taken must have gone into general use, and many have bought it at prices and under circumstances which have left no doubt as to where or how the goods were obtained. It would be a great assistance to this system of pillage if they could enter into collusion with carriers or others, and by these means know where and when to meet, how to escape ob-servation, and when it would be worth while to put on all their strength for a general raid. Those has been brought by bushrangers need not be In all countries where the law has lost its force crime becomes bolder and more energetic more deliberate and more successful. species of crime has existed in some parts of South America for ages, and the transfer of goods from one part of the country requires an escort far more formidable than any we find necessary to bring down gold. In fact, deprea small minority — when they form a small minority — when they are de-tested by the community amidst which they live—when they feel the trepidation of guilt—when they are under constant appre hension of betrayal. But it is quite possible when social life is poisoned and crime naturalised —when people come to think that robbing carts and pillaging coaches are fair means of subsist--for men to lose the fear of punishment, and even of detection. There is, indeed, a species of morality which renders dangerous than the most absolute debasement. They can keep faith with each other. Denun-ciations of crime are looked upon as infamous, not its committal. The man who betrays his comrades is regarded as immoral; he belongs to a corporation of thieves. The honour of their common bond acquires an ascendancy over even personal covetousness, and in figur-ing for his prey and standing firmly by his comrades, the robber thinks he only discharges the obligations of his citizenship. It is precisely this state of things which we have disclosed so eften in this wholesale depredation—in this organised watch—in this systematic distribu-

The intercourse now carried on with the The intercourse now carried on with the interior, where there are long intervals of sparsely populated country, favours this system. It is certain that goods and merchandise will pass. The scouts of the depredators are placed in some elevated spot whence they can descry all the movements of traffic. By their signals they also warn of the approach of anything that might successfully oppose them. Thus the traveller, as he wends his way, uncoascious that he is under the ewe of thieves, walks scious that he is under the eye of thieves, walks steedily onward to the trap prepared for him. No help is near him. No pursuit is possible. The traces of the thieves are soon lost.

They have probably only passed into a neighbourhood near at hand to rewhen they are told of robberies they express their astonishmert in the language and gestures of simple countrymen! If there were not clear proof that these things have occurred, and are still taking place, the inference would be in-evitable from the very nature of the pillage. It evitable from the very nature of the pillage. It would be useless to thieves to lead themselves with bulky goods—to charge their packhorses and carts—if there was no immediate concealment, and afterwards the means of disposal. But all this being arranged beforehand, it is impossible to say in what way the plunder may be stepped. Prebably, in the long run, it will be only prevented by the same precautions that are taken in other disorganised and disordered countries, where armed parties accompany the peaceful traveller, and where every place of encampment is guarded by a watch. The inencampment is guarded by a watch. The in-security which such a state of things implies, while it discourages interior occupation by honest men, opens a wide and unobstructed field for the ingenuity and enterprise of a corrupt, debased, marauding population. It is indeed deplorable that such impressions should be justified in a country under the British flag, and where industry meets with so ample and certain a reward.

A CORRESPONDENT, signing himself "Scru-tator," referring to a recent statement in the Herald, to the effect that free selectors, if they are to hold their ground, must have the right to impound equally with other tenants of the Crown, asks from what the selector is entitled to impound, and illustrates his question by a reference to MAIN's now celebrated case, showing the perplexities that may arise. The answer to the question propounded is, that the selector can only impound off his conditional purchase, and off the attached grazing right; but we are aware, at the same time, that his answer does not meet all the difficulties

The Land Alienation Act is based too much upon the assumption that the very large privi-leges it confers would not be abused, and there a lack of the necessary restrictions. Some sort of antagonism in the supplanting of a quatter by small settlers appears to be in-evitable. But the squatter has no right to complain of the lessening proportions of his run, nor will any one sympathise with him on that proof of the growing progress and settlement of the colony. The pastoral tenure is only intended to subsist till the land is wanted for freehold occupation; and, though the individual lessee, who may have found his occupation profitable, is lo h to get notice to quit, the reason for that netice is matter for general congratulation, becouse it shows that an increasing number of persons are binding themselves to the fortunes of the colony, and are investing their money and their labour in the improvement of the soil. A squatter is only entitled to complain when he suffers injury apart from the diminution of his grazing area, and not necessarily attaching to contiguous agricultural occupation, when the ir jury to him is disproportioned to the lawful requirements of the agriculturists, and when the privileges of his new neighbours are made

It is due to the great majority of free-selectors to say that justifiable complaints on this score have not apperently been numerous. There have been some, of course-more, no doubt, than have found mention in the Press; but they have been the exception rather than the rule. Still. there have been some cases, the most con-spicuous of which has been that of Main, which has occupied public attention, partly because of its repeated appearance in the Courts, and partly because it is a sort of test case of the working of the law where the antagonism between the squatter and the selector is fully

"Scrutator" says that Main's selection was made on a piece of land which had been cars ago promised under pre-emptive right to the lessee of the run, and which had not been absolutely alienated only because the survey had been neglected. If that is so, the selection was clearly invalid ab initio; that is, supposing the pre emptive right to have existed, though, as we have shewn on a previous occasion, that right was not in existence if the Murray reserve was legal, and if it had the effect of withdrawing the reserved portion from pre-emptive claims.

It is further stated by "Scrutator" that MAIN marked out his ground in opposition to the regulations as to frontage; that he refused to have it surveyed in any other way; and that, as that was not acceded to, the land has in fact never been surveyed at all. Supposing this to be a true statement, it raises the question as to when a selector's rights begin, and what are their limits. For, supposing that the general right to impound were not disputed, and that Main's selection had been in all other respects gal-that he had selected in his own name instead of his wife's, and that he had chosen land in a part fairly open to selection, still, if he had deliberately shaped his land at variance with the regulations, the right of impounding would necessarily seem to be affected thereby. A man cannot claim a right on the basis of his own wrong. The right to impound can scarcely attach to land to which the selector has no right. No surveyor, of course, would be dicated to by a selector as to the shape in which a lot is to be surveyed. The selector's liberty is subject to conditions, and it is the surveyor's business to see that the conditions as to frontage and proportionate depth are complied with. If a selector insist on having his land surveyed otherwise, on having his land surveyed otherwise, his conduct is equivalent to a surrender of his selection altogether, for he has chosen an allotment not within the limits of the law, but outside those limits; and his claim has therefore no validity.

It would probably be readily admitted that impounding rights do not attach to a misshapen selection, which the surveyor refused to recog-nise, because the surveyor is practically the representative of the Government in acknowledging the propriety of the selection, so far as the shape and position of the land is concerned; and if that acknowledgment is refused the title to the land is officially denied. But is there any doubt as to the right prior to the visit of the surveyor? Is that visit to the visit of the surveyor? Is that visit necessary to the full completion of the selector's impounding power? May he impound within the limits as drawn by himself, or may he only impound within the limits as defined by the surveyor? Is it to be presumed that he has obeyed the regulations as to the shape of his section until the surveyor has proved to the contrary? The spirit of the law certainly is that the selector's rights do not wait for the surveyor. The very object of the law was unat the selector's rights do not wait for the surveyor. The very object of the law was to get rid of all delay in putting men in possession of the land, and that purpose would not be realised if a bone side selector's rights were kept in aboyance, perhaps for a year, until he was visited by a surveyor to confirm them. At the same time, if a wrong-doing selector can claim impounding rights in virtue of an illegally shaped selection until those rights are disproved by measurement, great injustice may, in some cases, be done to pastoral lessees. When a Crown tenant has part of his lesse cancelled, and part of his run taken from it, it seems only reasonable that he should receive a natification to this effect from the lessor. At present he gets no official notification at all, and has to accept the selector's presence and his measurements as his only guide. The and his measurements as his only guide. The machinery of the law is in this respect evidently defective. If the selector's impounding right begins the moment he puts in his pegs, er as soon as he has got his receipt from the Land Office, the squatter may be liable to poundage fees before he knew that any part of his run had been withdrawn from him. The track to a waterhole may, on many a run, be pegged off days before the lessor knew that any fresh claimant for part of the land had put in an case before the lessor knew that any fresh claimant for part of the land had put in an appearance, and the first he might hear of it would be that his cattle were in the pound for graxing on the Tuesday where they had a perfect right to graze on the previous Monday, and of the withdrawal of which right no notification had been given. No honest selector, of course, would take any advantage of such extreme rights, but MAIN' conduct shows that cases of this sort may occur. especially wherethere is a feeling of antagonism against the squatter, and where there is the wil as well as the disposition to turn the letter of the law to the purposes of revenge. Perhaps the new Impounding Act promised by the Government may contain provisions that, to some extent, may meet such cases. Clearly some extent, may meet such cases. Clearly some more precise legislation is wanted.

Surday Schools.—A meeting of the members of the congregation of the Pitt-street Church was held on Thur-day evening last, presided over by the Rev. John Graham. The object of the meeting was to take into consideration the ways and means for erecting additional school secommodation. This was stated to be absolutely necessary, as the present room did not afford half the space required for the increasing wants of the clause had to be taught in the church, and this gave dissatisfaction to pewholders. Besides these teasons, it was urged that in an Australian climate spacious well-sired rooms ought to be provided, and so the health of the children be cared for. The rev. chairman having introduced the business, a series of resolutions was proposed and unanimously adopted. These were spoken to by the Rev. S. C. Kent, Johnson, and Fraser; and also by Messrs. Lloyd, Hunt, Fairfax, Lee, Catley, Hopkins, and S. Thompson. Plans for collecting by weekly, monthly, and annual subscriptions were laid before the meeting, and fully approved of. The period for raising the funds was fixed at two years, and the amount required from $4000 to £5500. Several gentlemen promised certain per-centages upon the first and second years' subscriptions. At the termination of the proceedings, the chairman threw out a few practical remarks apposite to the purpose they had in hand, and then encituded with prayer to God for a blessing upon the meeting.

Discovery or A SLATE QUARRY.—We yesterday inspected several pieces of alate that had been obtained from a quarry adjacent to the Ophic Copper mines, about twenty-five miles beyond Bathurst. The slates are censidered by judges of the article to be equal in quality to the best imported from England, though they have not the same bluish tint. We learn that the slate exists in great quantity at Ophir, and the discovery promises to be of great importance on account of the variety of uses to which the article is now applie

DABLINGTON MUNICIPALITY, - NOMINATION OF Darlinoton Municipality, — Nomination of Councillons.—A meeting of the electors of the Darlington Municipality was held yesterday (Friday), noon, at the John Bull Inn, Darlington, for the nominatin of parties as candidates to represent the municipality, called and presided over by Mr. P. L. C. Shepherd, returning-officer. Shortly after twelve, the returning-officer read the proclamation forming the municipality, and, after a few remarks, called upon any elector to propose a candidate. The following were then proposed:—As councillors: Messrs. Joseph Jones, John Williams, Robert Mase, William Kernidge, Asson Loveridge, J. A. Barl, David Etwards, Chailes M. Deane, Frederick Williams, Thomas W. Shepherd, Philip Brown, George Stubbs. As suditors: Messrs. Chailes Harris and Charles M. Deane, Frederick Williams, and Charles M. Deane, Heers the names had been submitted to the auditors: Messrs. Charles Harris and Charles M. Deane. After the names had been submitted to the electors present, and a show of hands called for, the returning-officer declared the result to be in favour of Messis. Loveridge, Maze, Shepherd, Dasse, Williams, and Easl. A poll was demanded by Messrs. Jones and Kerridge, which is to take place on Friday, 23rd instant, at the same place. The two auditors proposed were elected, there being no opposition. On the motion of Mr. Maze, a vote of thunks was proposed to the returning-officer, and carried; after which, the meeting separated.

STRAINO WOOD.—On Wedneaday last two boys, Alick Spowl and Frank Blencher, were found guilty of having atclen from the estate of Joseph H. Potts, Longbottom, a quantity of dead timber of the value of 20s. It appears that the boys are or were in the strice of a woodman, whose two empty carts were standing near the place at which the boys were found cutting up fallen trees into lengths suitable for their purpose. They were found guilty of this offence, and evidence was given of a former conviction for a like offence. LIFE AND LOVE — On Wednesday evening last, a lecture on this subject was delivered by Mr. Heary Kendall, in the St. Mary's Schoolroom, Waverley, which was well filled. The Rev. Stanley Mitchell presided on the occasion, and introduced the lecturer, who began by remarking that the adequate nature of things was rarely compuehended, and results seldom justified expectations. Three fourths of the mistakes and misfortunes of the world, he said, were the effects of incomplete views and deficient expression. The only remedy for incomplete views was love. The nature and the first principles of love did not trouble us generally. The mother, he continued, loved her child because it was part of her physical and psychical entity. The youth was centent to know that he loved the maidem—he did not often trouble himself about the why and the wherefore. Age loves youth because of its suggestiveness. The man loved the woman because of the sympathetic harmony in both which must commingle and be wedded together, even as "perfect music" is "wedded unto moble words." After dwelling upon the several conditions of love, and their relationship to life, he concluded with an earnest peroration, and est down amides much appleause. PUBLIC MEETING OF ELECTORS.

A PUBLIC meeting, convened by advertisement, took place at the Court-house on Thursday evening, for the purpose of considering the present political state of the colony, and hearing the opinions of the representatives—of one of the representatives—of the borough thereon.

A requisition, purporting to be signed by 105 electors, had been presented to the members to attend a meeting called for Monday; but communications were received in reply from Mr. Holvord, regretting that he did not feel himself in a position to comply with the request of the requisitionists, and from Mr. Lackey, M.L.A., intimating that business engagements prevented him from attending on that evening, but that he would be happy to meet the electors on Thursday evening. The meeting had therefore been postponed to Thursday evening, and up to the hour of meeting, it was expected by those who had taken an active part in the matter that Mr. Lackey would be present. The Major was voted into the chair, and read the advertisement and the letters referred to; he then read a note from Mr. Lackey which had just been placed in his hands as follows:—

Sir,—In consequence of the genuineness of the requisition presented to me, saking me to attend a public meeting to be held at the Court-house, Parramatta, being denied by a great number of electors in to-day's paper, I must decline the bonour of addressing them on this occasion.

The CHAIRMAN, in opening the business of the meeting, expressed a hope that it would be charscreized by fair play, and that the opinions of speakers, however much they might differ, would be expressed without anything offensive being introduced.

Mr. G. OAKES then addressed the meeting at considerable length. He expressed them there would not the track by the non-appearance of the members—one of whom had, at all events, been expected to address them upon the very important political questions of the day. However, he had no doubt they would be able to discuss these matters quite as well without their representatives as with them. He would as well as he could express his opinions upon the state of the colony, which he believed was deplorable, and he would carry them back some twelve months when the present Ministry came into power. He had been warmly urged to oppose Mr. Helroyd on his last appearance before the electors for re-election, but he had declined from a wish to give the Ministry a fair trial, which they had had. Mr. Oakes then proceeded to review and to condemn the acts of the present Ministry with reference to the tariff, the new commission of the pastern which he characterised as most individually for years having been removed and political friends retained—the mugisterial common faithfully for years having been removed and political friends retained—the much-taked of Provincial Councils Bill—which he thought would not be heard of more, and was an objectionable and tyrannical measure—and to the newspaper postage rate, and withdraway' of advertised to the colony, when people would not be heard of more, and was an objectionable and tyrannical measure—and to the newspaper postage rate, and withdraway' of advertised to the colony when people to be made to the present embarrased at the colony when people in the proposition of Parliament in the present embarrased take of the colony. From Melbourne we have two days' later papers, per the City of Melbourne steamer, her dates being to the 14th instant.

The Argus states that the annual show of the Port Phillip Farmers' Society, originally appointed for the second week in October, has been postponed until the 20th, 26th, and 27th of that month, in order that it may assume the character of "a grand national exhibition of stock ard implements," as suggested by the Board of Agriculture.

The huge block of granite, weighing thirty-six tons, intended for the Burke and Wills cemetery monument, has, within the last few days, been removed from the railway trucks on to the waggon made for the purpose. A start from Spencer-atreet station was effected on Tureday morning, bur, although forty horses were employed, the whole journey could not be completed, owing to the soft state of the roads.

Wednesday's Argus reports that at a meeting of the Council of the Victorian Rifle Association, held the previous afternoon, it was finally decided that, subject to these days being considered suitable by the New South Wales Rifle Association, the inter-colonial match should be shot on Monday the 14th, and Tursday, the 15th November, and that a prize meeting should be held on Friday the 11th, and Saturday the 12th November. The pregramme of this meeting will comprise a representative match for the various volunter corps, under the same conditions as last June. All cemers' matches at 300, 500, and 690 yards, for large bores; a small bore match at 500 and 600 yards, to which large bores may be admitted, receiving four points.

The Graneille Adocate, adverting to a great destruction of garden and other produce by situs, makes the following sensible observations on the subject:—"It is a pity that birds, scarce as they are, are made scarce by the guns of cockney sportsame. They are designed to keep in check the indefinite multiplication of insects, and no other check is so maturally effective. Even magpies are becoming rarer, and cockate os or laughling-jackasses are seldom seen now about the gold-fields. It is calculated that 100 magpies would keep 10,000 acres slinost entirely free from grubs. As lands gradually fall into the hands of private individuals, birds will probably be better protected. At present, the game law is almost a dead letter, as occasionally we see wild game in business of the control of the control of the service of the young the country. In allusion to magpies, we lavely heard an anecdote of a pair which had a nest, and an old bush hand endeavoured in vain for days to find it, owing to the wary instinct of the old birds, who sppeared to know that he was after their young; and before he succeeded he had to rise before daybeak, and he then traced the nest by the cries of the young, which nested in quiettade during the daytime. A discourse should be delivered from every platfer in the country, showing the folly and wickedness of destroying birds, extremely valuable as they are in the economy of nature. We were surprised to learn from a gentleman born in the country, that it has not yet been ascertained where the native crows breed, and consequently, that no nest of the species has ever been discovered.

Tursday's Argus says:—Messrs. J. W. Ploos Van Ams-el and Co. of Melbourne, have just received per ship Hebe, Captain Kishl, from Rotterdam, a very valuable consignment of pure Negretti sheep, consisting of fifty-three rams and twenty-live ewes. The ewes snd thirty of the rams have been bred by Baron Von Schachten, of Prussia. They are vigorous, good-sized animals, of beautiful symmetry; the wool is of exceedingly fine quality, and heavy not only on the back, but on the head, legs, and every part of the body. Twenty of the other rams are from the collection of Herr Sigismund Guradze, of Kottlischowitz, the wool of which is even a shade finer than that of the former, though equally strong. So highly is this breed appreciated that the Spanish Government obtained the fleeces of these rams, which exhibited in London, in 1862, for its museum. The remaining lots are renarkable for their colossal size. Though the quality of the wool is a little less fine than that of the animals aleady noticed, it is of great compactness and length and will yield an immense fleece. Notwithstanding that the saminals were only landed in Saturday, they are all in splendid condition, presenting the appearance of having just come off a fat pasture, instead of an ocean voyage of some month' duration. This circumstance is, no doubt, owing to the great care exercised by the shepherds, who had charge of them, and by the captain of the ship.

This prisoner had been remanded till Wednesday, but the remand was changed, that the conviction of the prisoner might be used in evidence sgainst the captain of the Black Sawn, who is to appear on summons, on a charge of bringing the prisoner to Victoria. This is the first time that this provision of the Act has been put in force for a lengthened period, and captains plying between Hotson's Bay and the other colonies will do well to hear in mid that the provision has been revived, and is bledy to be stringently enforced.

A GENTLE HINT TO NIGHT PLUNDERGERS OF HEN ROOSTS.—The following plan of protecting fowl-houses from thievish pouttry fanciers would, no doubt, be found to be generally effective. We quote from the M. A. Mail:—"At Mr. Glendinning's slaughter yaid resides a shepherd who has been amonyed by the fowl-stealing fraternity. To prevent a recurrence of this he placed a gun and fastened it to the fowl-house door, so that when the hinges turned the gun would explode. The plan saved all the poultry hitherto spased; for, a night or two ago, hearing the loaded gun 'go off,' the shepherd immediately rose and hastened out, and found a Chinese pole lying near, and to either end a beg attached for carrying away the birds. The intending depredator was, no doubt,' more frightened than hurt,' as he had managed to get clear off, the unexpected explosion somewhat startling his Lervous system, we should imagine."

STATISTICS OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.

We have before us the "Statistical Abviract for the United Kingdom in each of the last Fifteen Years from 1848 to 1862,"—a publication issued annually frem the Statistical Department of the Board of Trade. The portions of some of the more important returns that we have selected—giving the statistics for the last six years—may be of interest as exhibiting the enormous extent to which the industry and the commerce of Great Britain have been developed, as also the fluctuations to which, owing to various causes, trade, emigration, and other operations have been subjected during that period.

The recond table exhibits the principal branches of the gross public revenue, the charges for the collection of revenue not being deducted. The Customs receipts show comparatively little variation; the amount collected in the year ending 5th January, 1849, being £23,045,493; while the revenue for the year ending £23,045,493; while the revenue for the year ending 31st March, 1863, was £24,034,000. The Excise receipts ranged from fifteen to eighteen millions from 1849 to 1859; in 1860 that branch of the revenue exceeded twenty millions, but it has since then decreased at the rate of about a million per annum. The revenue from Stamps exhibits a gradual increase from nearly seven millions in 1849 to about nine millions in 1863. Under the head of Taxes, the revenue is rather more than a million sterling less than that in 1849; for the last ten years, however, it has remained ateady at a little over three millions per annum. The revenue from Property and Income Tax has fluctuated considerably; from 1849 to 1854 it averaged five millions and a half; in 1856 it increased to fifteen millions, and in the following year to sixteen millions; in the next year, however, it fell down to eleven millions, and in 1859 it was only six millions; for the last three years shown in the table, it has ranged between ten and eleven millions. The Post Office receipts have maintained a regular increase, the revenue having increased from £2,18,251 in 1849 to more than three and a half millions in 1863. The following are the returns of the above branches of revenue for the year ending 31st March, 1863:—

The third table shows the gross public expenditure, including payments for collection of revenue. During the fifteen years brought under review the civil list and civil changes have increased from seven millions to nearly eleven millions; the cost of the Army has increased from nearly eleven millions to seventeen millions and a quarter; and that of the Navy from about eight millions also to seventeen millions and a quarter; the cost of both Forces having fluctuated very considerably during that period; that of the Army amounting in 1856 to thirty-two millions, and that of the Navy from the cost of the force of

THE PRODUCTION OF SILK IN JAVA.

(From the Java Times, July 12.)

The introduction of a new branch of industry is not with ut its difficulties, more especially when, as is generally the case, public opinion characterises such as needless waste of money, time, and trouble. Never have worse results been foretold than in the case of the attempts now made to introduce the culture of silk worms. Remembering the seant success which had attended former attempts, people were led to regard the hope of a future production of silk on the island as a fallacy. The difference between the former and present attempts was lost sight of. Was the Siam silkworm known in former years? Was the cultivation of the Bombyx Cynth's and Bombyx Arrindia thought of? Was any effort made to utilise the many varieties of the Java's ilk worm? These questions may, I believe, be all answered in the negative, for, if I mistake not, all trials were made with the Chinese and European Bombyx mori only. The last attempts on the centrally were made with the tame silk worm of Siam, and with several varieties of what is known as "wild silk worms." The cultivation of the tame and wild species differs greatly; most of the trials were made with the first. It is generally known that the Siam silk worm was brought over to Buitenzong by Mr. J. E. Teysman, Honorary Inspector of Cultures in 1862. The first results were made public; not so those latterly obtained.

In the commencement of 1863, Mr. Teysman showed me the small establishment for the culture of silk (From the Java Times, July 12.)

In the commencement of 1863, Mr. Teysman showed me the small establishment for the culture of silk worms which he had just erected. It consisted of two small buildings, constructed of bamboos, the sides worked in the Kepang pattern, with roofs of atap. The surrounding grounds (some two and a half to these baboes), were planted with mulberry trees (Morus incico), and in the immediate vicioity was the dwelling of the Cochin Chinaman André Locas, who with his household had the care of the worms. Every while the toenin Crimman André Locas, who with his household had the care of the worms. Every thing was simple, and arranged in the Chinese fashion. One of the erections served for the development of the worms, the other for the winding and for the preparation of the coccome. The whole establishment inclusive of the plantation, I computed to have cost about f.400, and at the end of one year Mr. Teysman had the satisfaction of being able to bring to market 80 lbs. (Amsterdam weight) wound, and 89 lbs. of floss silk, which were sold on the 24th December last at Hatavia for the sum of f.1400. This year's yield will be still greater, for now after a lapse of six months 50 lbs. (Amsterdam) of wound, and much more floss silk have been offered for sale. But not only at Buiterz rg were favourable results obvained; at Sanararg too, and at Malang, the trials were attended with success.

Samarar g too, and at Malang, the trials were attended with auccess.

The degeneration of the worms which was so much feared is newhere visible; the cocoons have, on the contrary, increased in size since the worms have been carefully tended. The quality, too, of the silk is better. The first musters sent to Europe were taxed at f. 10 to f. 12 per Kilo; the Buitenang silk fetched, at the auction alluded to, the average of f. 143, whilst a muster lately sent to Europe was valued in France at f. 22 per half-kilo. I believe that the facts here spoken of are so many reasons for asserting that a lucrative culture of the silk worm is not wholly imaginative. Mr. L. Weber says on the subject, in the introduction to his Handleiding toor eeinge kultures op Jora (Handbook of Cultures in Java):—That the Jeulture of the silkworm will in time be a means of existence for the European as well as for the Malay, will certainly be experienced by those who apply themselves to it; from the results which I myself have obtained, I do not hesitate to recommend its extension, and am convinced that the sid of our rulers may be reckoned upon.

Government, which has lost such heavy sums with Government, which has lost such heavy sums with former attempts, is, we are informed upon good authority, endeavouring to introduce the culture of the Siamese silk worm on a large scale, the inducement to do se being the fortunate results which have attended the late trials.

attended the late trisis.

Already the planting of mulberry trees in the residency Krawang has been commenced. Private industry, too, should devote more of its attending to the expectation to the subject. Not that it will be necessary to treet extensive and costly establishments; it is sufficient if many small and inexpensive enes be founded; favourable results will then lead to extension. The trisis with the so-called "wild silk worms" are not yet so far advanced. Although several trisis on a small scale have been successful, the varieties of the worm are so numerous as to make it difficult to decide as to the best. Of the known varieties of the wild silk worm, not less than ten sorts might be used for spinning purposes in Java. In other tropical countries, as Surinam (Dutch Guyana), the Arganire Republic (Le Pista?) and in Braril, the Bombyz Cynthia and Arriadia have already been introduced, but Java herself has many silk-spinners, which are found in a wild state, and perhaps one or either of these deserves the preference above the two

PRINCE OF WALES THEATER.—On Monday evening last Taylor's excellent comedy, the "Unequal Match, was preduced this fact, Rogers as Incherby, Mr. Burford as Grazebrook, Miss Googenheim as Hester Grazebrook, and Mrs. Crosby as Betsy. It was a deidedly good performance; but it seems iteraphicable why Mass Lockhart did not sustain her old character of Mrs. Crosby as Betsy. It was a deidedly good performance; but it seems iteraphicable why Mass Lockhart did not sustain her old character of Mrs. Lordon and that insolectuality which, even on the stage, cannot be assumed by those who have it not. A laughable interlude followed, in which Miss Lockhart appeared in the character of Mrs. Duptis, Mr. Bartlett as Dupuis, and Mr. Janes Simmond's set Themas. Only on the "Colleen Bawn" was reposted with Miss Googenheim as Elly O Connor, Miss Goodon as Ann Chute, Mr. Burferd as Danny Mann, Mr. Bartlett as Hardress Cregon, Mr. Hogers as William Corrigan, and Mr. Jackson as Myles Na Coppaleen. Victoria Theatrie.—The performance at the Victoria Theatre during the past week have been entirely sensational. On Monday last a drama founded on Crunkshank's Cartoons, and entitled "The Bottle, or the Drunkard's Doom," formed the first part of the bill, the various characters being sustained by Mesars, Rayner, Miran, M'Gowan, Miss Leuise Armst, and Mrs. Charles Poole. The feat by Bartine, of walking a single wire from the stage to the gallery followed, and the nautical drama of "The Ship on Fire" concluded the entertainments. On Tuesday, the performances commenced with a play, entitled "Rann O'Connor, or the recluse of Castie Hamend," adramatised version of "Oliver, I wist" was also produced, wherein Miss Arnott appears as Oliver Twist, Mrs. Charles Poole as Nancy, Mrs. L. M'Gowan as Charley Bates, Mr. Joseph Rayner as Bill Sykes, Mr. C. Miran as Fagin, Mr. L. M'Gowan as the Artful Dodger. Dancing and the scrobatic performances of Bartine were presented as an interlude. On Wednesday this bill was repeated. On Thursday, the drama "The Peep-o'-day" and the farce of the "Alarming Sacrifice" were produced, with the rope walking; and yesterday evening, for the benefit of Mr. Bartine, who is about to leave Australia for Java, "Dos Casar de Bazan" was produced, with Miss Arnot as Don Casar, and Mrs. Charles Poole as Maritana; Bartine on the corde volants and other acrobatic entertainments followed, the performances concluding with the drama of "Ireland as it was," in which Mr. Rayner sustained the character of Dan Carolan, Mr. Lachlan M'Gowan, Ragged Pat; and Miss Arnot Judy O'Trot. This evening the performances comprise "The Miller and his Men," and "Ireland as it was," on Miss Arnot Judy O'Trot. CUTTING OFF THE WATER SUPPLY.

To the Editor of the Heraid.

Sra,—A notice appeared in your paper on the 13th instant, from the manicipal authorities, "that the water supply would be out off on the 14th instant, from that pertice of the city north of King-street." As I reside south of that street, I of course believed that I was not affected thereby; but judge my surprise when I found myself and neighbours, and I presume all others south of the line, cut short of our supply, thereby putting us to very great inconvenience. One party I know has seffered considerable loss owing to the peculiar because he follows, which was thus put at a standardil.

FREE-SELECTORS-IMPOUNDING - MAIN'S CASE.

To the Editor of the Heraid.

Fin,—I have read with much interest your articles showing the advisability and propriety of the right of impounding being ranted to free-selectors as well as to other tenute of the Crown.

The off-cited case of Main, near Moams, affirds, of course, the ixit of the subject.

The cit-cited case of Matn, near Moams, affirds, of course, the text of the subject.

It strike me, however, that there are circumstances connected with the case which few persons are aware of. This, one of the first cases which has happened, fortunately showed life the weak points of the system of conditional purchase. You cyline that if free-selectors are to hold their own, the right of impenuoing must be conceded to them. I reply by saking you what they are to impound from? Still ringing changes on Main. I beg to inform you that he, or rather his wife, made a selection on the bank of the river Murray (within an improved paddock) of forty scree; As Assect marking out his boundaries, immediately processe to impound valuable cattle until then undistantedly grazing in that paddock.

Ac Assacif marking out his boundaries, immediately process to impound valuable cattle until then undisturbedly grazing in that pacdock.

Now under the regulations under the Crown Lands Act, which have all the force of law—that forty acres should have a frostage to the river Murray of six chaics and sixty-six links (6c. 6c. 1) merely—with side lines running back for sixty chains.

But Main's wife, through her agent, Main, marks out for herself a frontage of iscenty chains, and running back twenty chains only. Now this land so irregularly, and, therefore, unlawfully marked off for himself, is what Maic claims as the land he has conditionally purchased. This is what the pointed out to the surveyor as his claim; is the what he pointed out to the surveyor as his claim; is the what he pointed out to the surveyor as his claim; and whilst he would not allow him to measure in any other way, of course it was not so measured. I rather think it has not been measured at all.

right of impounding (if such do exist) of any portion of the leand thus irregulasily, and therefore unlawfully, mark-dout by binself. From what portion of the land were the cattle impounded? From that which he wight have its wfully poseessed, or from that portion of which he has unlawfully poseessed himself? Where are the six or sown chains fronlage he should have? What portion of the twenty chains do they represent?

In virtue of that conditional purchase, Main has now a licence to depasture 120 acres of Crown lands adjacent thereto. If those 120 acres of Crown lands adjacent thereto. If those 120 acres of Crown lands adjacent thereto. If those 120 acres are marked at all, we may be pretty certain he has measured in some arbitrary manner which shall give the greatest amount of profit to himself, and the greatest possible annoyance to his neighbours. He has cut down, or threatens to cut down, the old paddock fence which he says interferes with this grazing right. This right would appear to be quite undefined. The only rule which I can discover in the regulations is that the block of land grazed over shall be rectangular—but what proportion the length shall be to the breath is quite unexplained.

It is generally stated, and believed, that Mrs. Main has been informed that she being a "Summe converte" could not lawfully make any selection, and that what she has made is, therefore, vold. Now, if the selection be vold, I preume that the grazing right pendent thereto must be void also. Mr. Main, however, has no intention of vasting any of the land held by either tea ure.

The most singular part of the whole affair is, that the land to eslected—the improved pendeck—was held by the disposeessed quatter under a proulse from the Government to grant him the fee simple thereof, under the right of pre-emptive purchase existing when the application was made. Years ago it appears an ender issued from the Government to grant him the fee simple thereof, under the right of pre-emptive purchase existing when the application and m

RANDWICK RIFLE MATCHES.

SECOND DAY —FRIDAY.

THE number of competitors who attended the Rifls Matches yesterday was scarcely so large as on the first day, but those who took part in the competitions yesterday consisted for the most part of the recognised best shots, both with the Enfield and the small-bore with best shots, both with the Enfield and the small bore tiffe.

The weather of yesterday was similar to that of Thursday, the wind blowing from the same quarter, and almost as arrong in force, though it was scarcely so boisterous as it was on the first day of the meeting. The shooting of yesterday exhibited a very great improvement on that of Thursday; but this was attributable rather to the satier conditions of the matches than to any improvement in the weather. In the Volunter matches, on Thursday, the Hythe position was strictly adhered to, while by far the greater portion of the snooting yesterday was in any position.

The matches shot yesterday were the fifth (for prizes subscribed by the ladies of Sydney), the syenth, and part of the sixth. The fifth was at 200 and 500 yards, a ven shots at each range, with any ride, small bores sllowing to Enfeid seven marks. It was confidently anticipated that the Enfields would win the prizes—of which there were three, £25, £15, and £10—in this match; but the strong and variable wind was less favourable to the Enfields than to the small bores, and the prizes were taken by three well-known small bores not; Mr. Roberts, Mr. Sharp, and Leutenant Richards. The highest score with the Enfield was Mr. Biggs of West Mailand, who scored 39, making, with the handicap added, 46 marks against 49 by the highest small bore. The only other match finished yesterday was the seventh, at 300 and 600 yards, seven shots at each, the first range, standing the second in any position—the prizes, amounting the £50, being presented by Mr. H. C. Dangar. The shooting in this match was not so good as it was in the other, but it was much superior to the firing over the same ranges on Thursday.

Owing to the time occupied in firing a very large number of sighting shots yesterday, and to the delays in repainting the targets so frequently (which the improved character of the shooting neces-itated), a me delay occurred, and the arrangements for shooting were somewhat modified; but, by the untiring exertions of Colonel Ward, Mr. Walter Lamb, and Mr. Grafton Ross, the mes were squaded without difficulty, and the work set down for the day got through before somewhat modified; but, by the untiring exertions of Colonel Ward, Mr. Walter Lamb, and Mr. Grafton Ross, the mes were squaded without difficulty, and the work set down for the day got through before somewhat modified; but, by the untiring exertions of Colonel Ward, Mr. Walter Lamb, and Mr. Grafton Ross, the mes never squaded without difficulty, and the work set down for the day got through before somewhat modified; but, by the untiring exertions of Colonel Ward, Mr. Wal

DANISH IDRAS OF ENGLISH HONOUR.

(Translated from Dagbladet of 2nd July)

In the meeting of Rigurandet (Parliament) on the 1st July the Minister for Marine laid before the House an Act for levying sailors for the navy.

Mr. Steenstrup (member for Æiö) had no objection to the Act, but would take this opportunity to sak the Government to take care that the island of Æiö, where from so many young men for the navy were obtained, should not be surprised by the enemy and come into their possession, even if only fur twenty-four hours, and, as a matter of course, loss all its movable property, particularly the vossels in harbour. He thought the enemy might be prevented from taking the island, at least so long until England, whose honour, according to Danish ideas, is identical with perildy and dishonour, went over to the enemy and treated us as in 1807. When that happened, then he would not sak the Government to take such a trifle as the island of Æiö in consideration; but till then he might well sak them not to give up this the last part of South Julland still in their possession.

might well sak them not to give up this the last part of South Juliand still in their possession.

Mademoirelle Precolomini—It may be fairly said, without detracting from Mdlle. Piccolomini's merits, that a certain portion of the excitement which she created on her first appearance may be attributed to the romance which signalized her operatic career. The descendant of a noble Italian family, which had given popes, cardinals, generals, and statesmen to her native country; the child of a race so often illustrated in history; living in right of her name, her title, and her family connections, in the first Italian society of Rome and France, she had from her earliest childhood conceived irresitable longings, augmenting with years, to devote herself to the public profession of that art she felt within her, and which seemed to point out the course of her destiny. Private life grew more and more wearisome, because almost impossible to bear, as these appirations strengthened with her advance to woman hood. So urgrat was the incessant importunity of little Marietta Piccolomini, that her parents were obliged at last to yield a reluctant consent to her appearance on the operatic stage. Her youth, her vivacity, her piquants grace, ensured her a favourable reception, even as a novice. Her fame soon increased; in Florence, Rome, and Turin, she was welcomed as the spoiled child of the public. In the Tracista, more especially, her success was enthusiantic. On many occasions her arden: admirers would have dragged her carriage home, had not the spirited girl herself protested against such mistaken homage, or escaped by a ruse from so doubtful a triumph—Lumley's Reminiscences of the Opera.

Mr. Donnor: Will you allow me to give a legal opinion? (Laughter.)

The Chairman: On, yes.

Mr. Dunnor in new his opinion that the incoming committee would be responsible for the debt, and no mituke about it. ("Hear, hear," and laughter.)

Mr. Bunn hoped the statement and not been circulated for the purpose of intimidating gen-lemen from undertaking the management of the matriculon.

Mr. Languar said he shought the incoming committee need to the alarmed about the debt. He awe in the Spaney Morning threid, which he supposed was a good authority, that the secretary had resigned, that there was a jr spect of carrying on the institution by means of unpard efficers. Thus, with an increuse of members, would considerably reduce the debt in the course of the year. (Hear, hear.)

The Chairman read a letter from the secretary giving the requisite in tice that he would resign his office on the 20th November next.

A letter was read from Mr. Josephson, stating that he would be prepared to give $20 worth of books to the institution of on as the members should have increased by 150 from the date when the offer was made, and contaiting a privio that the books so given should be returned to him of, unfortunately, the institution should close before the course of the year.

Other letters were teen ballotted for—Mr. J. J. Clark, Mr. Largley, and Mr. West, being appointed scrutineers. Mr. H. Iroyd and Mr. Josephson declined to allow their names to be retained for the office of president, and Mr. James mith was elected. Mr. S. Cook and Mr. Parkins on were unanimously elected vice-of-presidents.

Mr. S. Cock and Mr. Parkins in were unanimously elected vice-yr aidents.

The new committee men chosen were Messra. Allpasa, Dunley, Biggs, Whateley, Baylins, Webber, Goodsell, Kiebby, and Sadleir.

Mr. Mackay and Mr. Pilding were elected to be sanditors, and Mr. Phillips was closen as treasurer.

Mr. Allpass moved that the Sir rule be expurged, and that words be inserted in its place to the effect that the scretary and librarism, on and after the 20th Newmber, 1864, shall be honorary officers, elected at this meeting, and annually afterwards, at the September general meeting.

This motion was also carried unanim usely.

The chairman having been mixed int. If the chair, a cordial vote of that is was awarded to the chairman who had just reitred from the office of president, and who, in conjunction with his contraste (his Honor Mr. Justice Wise), had rendered such valuable services to the institution.

Mr. Holmory, in acknowledging the vole, said that those who know hom would not for a moment attribute his leaving the office of president to anything like a feeling that is did not like to associate with the gentlemen now elected as members of the committee, because they belonged to the mechanical classes. He would as soon associate with him as with his collegues in the Ministry. As a trustee he was expliced in the member of the committee, and as frequently as he could he would attend its meetings and give the best savice he could. (Cheers.)

In the share market there has been very little doing this week, and the sales have mostly been confined to two or three securities. The spproaching half yearly meetings of some of our companies, it is expected, will induce pur-chasers again to come forward and relieve the market of the surplus stock offering. At present the share market is in that state that it hardly possible to buy or sell any amount without causing prices either to advance or recede. The fluctuations that have taken place are as follows:—New South Wales and Commercial Bank shares are steady at quota-tions. Australian Joint Stock Bank shares are not quite so firm, and have declined 2s. 6d. per share. City Bank shares are dull of sale. In Steam Shares, some large sales of Australasian Steam Navigation shares have been made at a decline of 10s. per share. The opposition of the Queensland Company has induced some holders to force sales, hence the depreciation in the value of these shares during the past two months. The shares of the Clarence and Richmond River Steam Navigation Company are offered at par, but there are no buyers at present. Illawarra Steam Navigation shares are hardly so firm since the judgment in the case of the Prince Consort, but no sales have yet been made under £3 17s. 6d. per share. In Hunter River New Steam Navigation shares there have been no sales this week, and prices are nominal. Coal shares are in better request. Wallsend Coal Company's shares are recovering from the serious fall they have had, and there are now buyers at £7 5s., which is an advance of 15s. per share on the last sale. Holders, however, do not appear desirous of pushing sales at present. Waratah Coal shares are also firmer. present. Waratah Coal shares are also firmer. Insurance shares have not been dealt in to any extent this week. Sydney Fire Insurance shares are unaltered. Pacific Fire and Marine Insurance shares continue in favour, and have advanced 2s. 6d. per share. Pesk Downs Copper Mine shares are very dull of sale, and still have a downward tendency. The following are the prices at which sales have been made during the

We have another quiet week to report in our markets. The news by the Bombay of decreased shipments it was anticipated would have caused some movement in those articles which show a falling off, but such has not yet been the case. Our trade, however, with the neighbouring colonies of Queensland and New Zealand continues good, and makes up in some degree for the dulness which has been caused by the serious decline in our trade with the gold fields. The following is the latest report of our markets: of our markets :-

FLOUR.—There has been great excitement in the flour market during the week, and prices are again very firm, and have an upward tendency. The Dashing Wave arrived from Ban Francisco, and, contrary to expectation, brought a cargo of lausber instead of breadstuffs. This induced holders at once to ask $25 pr ton for first brands of Adelaide, and small sales have been made during the week at that price. The Isle of France arrived on Tuesday, from California, with a cargo of breadstuffs, but as the whole of the wheat was imported on the account of two of our millers, it had no effect on prices. In the neighb uring colonies flour has also advanced in price, and as the bulk of our stocks are in a few hands prices are almost at their mercy unless we have some unexpected arrivals from Valparaise and C. lifernia or English shipments are continued. The mill-rs have selvance of their quoestions $1 per ton. They now quote fine flour is quoted by the agents at from £23 lot to £25; the latter figure being asked for first brands; Californian, £24 per ton; Chili, £23 per ton. Whear is also much firmer, and there are now buyers of Adelaide at 10s. 6d. per bushel.

Licours.—Ale, in bulk, is a little firmer, but prices are unaltered. Brandy is seedy, Martell's is quoted at $8.9 dt to $8. Rum, $20.0p., $2.4 dt. to $8.61. Geneva is firm, first brands range from 10s. 6d. to 11s. 6d. In wines we have no transactions of any importance to report.

Thas are a little firmer, particularly fine teas, which are getting scarce. Congous range from £6.5s. to $9 per chest.

Stoans are firm, and recent sales by auction show an improvement in the prices of ration sugars. On Tuesday about 70 tons of Mauritius were quitted at auction, by Messers. Fotheringham and Mullen, at £33 to £34 per ton.

Ricz.—There has been very little doing in rice, and prices remain about the same as last week. Patna, £21 to £22 per ton.

Tonacoo.—The principal feature of the week has been a sale by auction, of some 80 half-interes of larrative second quality, or "Crown" negrohead, without exception the most degenerated sample of tobaccoow we have seen for years. Prices realised were from 1s. to 1s. 8d. in bond. Speculation has commerch from £40 and large proportion exported; with the exception of about 60 cases of Swiss, in bond, the market is completely bare of all kin Mesars. Mort and Co. offered at auction today, 142 casks of tallow; and sold 101 at prices ranging from £26 10s. to £30 2s. 6d. per ton. They also catalogued 672 hides, and sold 300 at from 8s. 9d. to 16s. 3d. each.

Mr. O. B. Ebsworth sold to-day, by auction, 175 hides, at 7s. to 11s. 6d. each; calfskins, 2s. 9d. each.

Mesers. Durham and Irwin held their usual weekly sale of tallow and hides, this day, weekly sale of tailow and mues, van uny, Friday.

Tailow.—The catalogue comprised about sixty casks, all of which were sold, at firm £30 h. 6d to £30 fa 6d for beef, £11 for mutton; station, from £40 to £38 13a. Hides.—The markst is casier, buyers are not disposed to operate except at lower rates than have been hitherton ruing; of 1057 offeced, 839 were solf. Several parcels of heavy were taken at from 12a 6d, to 1ba. per hide; prince ranged from 15e 6d to 15e of heavy, mediums at from 8s to 12a. Calfatins is 2d, to 1s 8d each; kip jeather at 13jd.; harmes (brewn), at 16jd.; calfating, dressed, at 2a. 2d, per b., Shanibones, at £3 10a, per ton.

and, independent of the large sales by auction, private purchases to a considerable extent were made. Prices for best Adelaid ranged from £21 los to £31. At one sale by auction, 195 tons were disposed of at good rates. By the same means, 2000 bugs usgar, brown and file counters, were sold, at an advance of £1 to 80e on latest sales, together with 6000 borse damaged candles, at fair rates. Wheat is reported from at latest quotation, vis 10s 3d, with a tendency towards a further advance. Same of terroserse cell in the market have been effected at as 64; olive oil has changed hands at 6s 44d. Gunpowder has bee one rather filmer since the receipt of late advices. Sacks and woolpacks are still in demand. The former have advanced to 18s; a quantity of the latter, ex. P. C. Charke, was purchased yesterday at, it is stated, 6s 6d.

LOP CLOTHING. FALSE RCONOMY.

WILLIAM HOWER, Fashimable Tailor, of Pitt-street, has (in order to meet the awful depression of the times) nade such considerable reductions in his charges as will enable even the most economically prudent to enjry the benefits of good materials well made, and elegantly fisting clothing at prices a near trife over charges now made for stop and machine-made articles of much inferior materials, W. B. requires but a trial of his clothing (made to order) when he feels confident that the most fastidious will admit that for durability, comfort and elegance of fit, no comparison he made between the goods supplied by his establishment and the "hand-me-down" trash pawned upon the public by slop-selling "emportums."

The Please mark the address—WILLIAM HOWES, No. 164, Pitt-street, opposite Tattersall's and School of Arts.

A DESIDERATUM!!! SUMMER CLOTHING thea won't shrink and become useless after the first wash.—HEMIXY HATES and OO, have just received a choice lot of Summer Goods for their renowned guisan ironsers and summer suits which, by the only proper process, vis., bolling the material—yea, actually bolling is—never shrinks after—a communaction deroutly to be wished.

Australian Eagle Tobacco, Manufactured in the Colony from pure Virginian Leaf. TUESDAY, 20th September.

Extract from Mesera, Bergin, M'Encroe and Co.'s

"l'obacco Cironiar" for August, 1864: "Since we procured recently large additional press power, and other expensive machinery, there has been a marked improvement in our manufacture. We make from the BEST FURK AMERICAN VIRGINIA LEAP, without adultatation of any kind whatever. We use no deleterious drugs to give an artificial rmil, but our process of manufacture preserves and improves the grunde, sweet, natural flavour, so possilarly pleasing to such sees. Our tobscoo is now in first-rate condition,—fully exacted, and admitted by competent judges to be in material, flavour, eize of fig. and style of flaish, equal to genuine 'Barrant's Auchor Brand,' and upwards of 25 per cent. greater value than the 'Northern' make from 'Western' leaf row in this market, with Barrant's and other YORGEN Senthern brands. From our command of capital, constant direct importations, and isolity in manufacturing we are smalled, as all times, to guarantee an article thoroughly essented, and, therefore, in as good condition as the prime brands formerly imported from the Southern market, but no longer obtainable in this market."

A sample package will be at the Rooms on morning of sale.

UPPER HUNTER.

TOWN OF MUSWELLBROOK

The ROSEBROOK FARM—a valuable Estate comprising 230 AURES, more or less, of rich land, situate on the bank of the HUNTER RIVER, immediately opposite the centre of the TOWN of MUSWELL-BROOK.

Title unquestionable. For particulars apply to Mesers WANT and SLADE, solicitors, Pitt-street.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from JOHN WHITFORD, Esq., to sell by public auction, at the Booms, Pitt-street,
Sydney, on MONDAY, 31st October, at 11 o'clock,
The above velanble agricultural property.
ROSEBROOK FARM contains about 230 sores of vary rich land, having about HALF A MILE FRONTAGE to the HUNTER RIVER, and is accurely enclosed with a substantial three-rail fonce. It is subdivided into several psddccks, and about 50 scress have been CLEARED and brought under cultivation; 30 acres or which are now brider became.

ROSEBROOK HOUSE is a well-built family residence, containing nine rooms, with front verandah and baicony, and large besement used as ceiter and dairy. It is built of out stone, with stated roof; and the whole of the work internal and external is of the very best description, and well finished.

§The other improvements are numerous, and comprise a four-stall stable and coachhouse; a large barn, and stock-jard divided into three compartments, fitted with oalf-pen and milking balls for carrying on an extensive dairy. There is also an orchard and orangery of about two acres, planted with a variety of the CHOICEST trees.

with a variety of the CHOICRET trees.

CF This property can be with confidence recommumended to the attention of parties looking out for an investment in a really good country estate, with a capital residence and sumerous improvements, all in first-rate order. The house, which was built by the present proprietor without regard to cost, is very complete, and stands on an elevated position, out of reach of all findods, and commands extensive views of the currounding country.

The land is of a very rich description, portions of it baving yielded thirty-five busbels of wheat to the scree. As a whole, it contains the comforts of a commoditous country residence, with the advantage of carrying on a large and profitable dairy and agricultural establishment, the neighbouring town and district, affording a ready market for all produce.

The Great Northern Railway line will pass through or in close proximity to the estate; and the station at Muswell-brook, which is expected to be open for traffic in little more than twelve months, will in all probability remain the terminus for many years, giving a large additional values to the important property.

Upon one parties of the lead is a large quarry of fine building sines, which he already furnished the material for most of the premises in and around his nevellbrook.

An imposition of feaborook is specially invited prior to the sale, and every facility for that purpose will be granted to in latending purchasors.

ready for the plough; the residue partially clear and ringbarked.
The improvements comprise

Drapery, Fancy Goods, Clothing, &c., &c., Just landed ex Nineveh and Whitehall.

This is one of the most valuable suburban estates in the county of Cumberland, in perfect order, and very highly improved. The position is the choicest in the Bringelly district, surrounded or in the immediate neighbourhood of the following celebrated properties— Reby, Luddenham Bellevne, Wivenhoe, Kirkham Harrington Park, Glenice, and other noted estates. urther particulars will be announced in a future advertise-ment. In the meantime cards to view may be obtained and a good plan of the cetate may be inspected at the Rooms.

ERMS.—A large proportion of the purchase money may remain secured on the property at 8 per cent. it required. RICHARDSON and WRENCH have re-ceived instructions from the MORTGAGEE to sell, WITHOUT RESERVE, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, on MONDAY, 24th October,

The whole is situated upon a block of land containing two acres, portion of section 122, at the foot of Tapley's Hill, about SEVEN MILES FROM ADELAIDR.

The position commands the whole of the traffic between the southern wheat-growing districts and the city, and in this respect the property possesses advantages which attach to no other mill in the colony.

The REYNELLA MILL is four steries in height, and substantially built of stone. It is situated about ains miles from Adelaide, upon a block of land, part of Section 624, having a frontage of 305 feet to the MAIN SOUTH ROAD, and containing 1 acre 1 roof and 16 perches. The mill is ditted with a very superior of sixteen horte-power, tubular boiler, silk-dressing machines, smutting machines, elevators, &c., &c.

The whole is in complete order, and it for the immediate resumption of work.

The above valuable properties are well known as the steam flour mills of the late Mr. George Pool, and are for sale in consequence of the decesses of that gentleman.

The auctioneers desire to draw the attention of capitalists and others to the fact of these preparties being for sale. They command the whole of the southern wheat district, and the extensive business carried on with the other colonies by the late owner is alone a sufficient proof of their value.
